In celebration of Easter

Possibly the most important event in the Christian world.

Easter. We all know it.

And most of us look forward to it, if only for a few days of well earned rest over the long weekend - hopefully with the sun shining, a few beers (if not abstaining) and a nice BBQ in the back garden, too.

(although April is known in Britain for its rain..., so fingers crossed its a sunny weekend!)

Due to the consumerism culture we have in the Western World, Christmas is probably more well known as a Christian event.

However, for many practicing Christians, Easter is THE EVENT within their holy calendar.

When Jesus is believed to have been resurrected by God after his crucifixion, by the Romans just shy of 2000 years ago.

A time of celebration, where billions of people come together to worship the life and resurrection of Jesus Christ, and the salvation of God.

After being crucified under the orders of Pontius Pilate, (the Roman governor of Judaea) - modern-day Israel, Jesus was buried in a tomb by his followers, where his body rested, but seemingly vanished 3 days later, an event that has come to be-known as Easter thereafter...

Specific foods are eaten during this period, with Lamb being one of the main foods, along with baked Breads, Hams, Hot Cross Buns... and chocolate eggs.

Which of course, for our children, nieces, nephews, grandchildren, and those of our friends, neighbours and so on - is their favour part, when they get to scoff as many chocolate Easter Eggs as they can get!

In many villages, towns and places in Britain, we still have "Easter Egg Hunts" for the children to enjoy as part of the weekend celebrations, which is a nice and wholesome tradition to carry on.

Its also time of worship for many Christian Scaffolders across the world of all ethnicities, and Ultra Access is proud to join the celebrations with them in support of our common ideology.

We're also proud to celebrate this weekend as part of our fantastic British christian culture, too.

Try not too eat too many choclote eggs scaffs! You might not be able to get that through that ladder access on Tuesday morning! ;-)
